May Election Information positions up for election

As with many small communities throughout Oregon, services such as Fire, Water, Medical Clinics, Park and Recreation and School are funded as districts or special districts. These districts are managed by their boards and their boards are made up of five people who live within their district boundaries.

The Board members are Elected by VOTERS in their districts. Elected yes, to volunteer positions. That's right, no pay, no bragging rights, but rather an opportunity to be a part of sustaining and improving services for their fellow community members.

The May 21 2019 election may seem far off, but for people interested in becoming a board member for one of our many districts time is short. Your application and $10 filing fee must be into the County Clerk's office by March 21 if your name is to appear on the ballot.

North Lake Health District has three board positions up for election: Positions Three and Four are each for four year terms and Position Five is for a two year term.

North Lake School District 14 has three board positions up for election: they are positions One, Two and Five and all are four year terms.

The Christmas Valley Rural Fire Protection District has three positions up for election and all three are for four year terms. The are Positions One, Two and Four.

North Lake Park and Recreation District has four positions up for election. They are positions One, Two, Four and Five. All but position Five are for four year terms. Position Five is for the two year duration of a four year term.

Christmas Valley Domestic Water District has positions One, Two, Four and Five up for election. One, Two and Five are for four year terms and Position Five is for two years - to complete a position that was vacated and appointed.

For more information you can call any of these districts or the County Clerk's office at 5451-947-6006. Also there will be a school bond measure on the ballot (see text on page seven where you will also find a copy of the form to file for candidacy.

Please see Election, Page Seven.

Commissioners Meeting March 6 in CV

Mark your calendars now so you won't miss spending some time with the Lake County Commissioners. They will be holding their regular session meeting here, in Christmas Valley, at the Community Hall on March 6th at 10am. Check the County web site or Post Office for agenda information.

Remember to spring your clocks forward one hour before you go to bed on March 9th because Daylight Savings Time begins on March 10

Comings and Goings

By Terry Crawford

On the evening of February 17, just two days shy of the second super moon of the year I enjoyed a cool brisk outside time playing Frisbee with the dogs as I headed to the barn to feed the horses. The sky was nearly clear, the moonlight brilliant and still the winter sky was filled with the sparkle of our galaxy. Our night sky is one of my favorite aspects of living in the high desert. It reminds me of what the sky looked like on the eastern outskirts of Bend 40 years ago - when I first experienced it. The ambient light was far away then and the magnificence of the sky was there to savor and enjoy. Twenty nine years later the outskirts of Bend had edged ever further east and with growth came less and less sparkle in the night sky.

I am often surprised by how many folks out here choose to light their yards with one or more huge lights. Lights so bright that they cause me to drape the bedroom window to block their disruptive glare. I understand people feel more secure with their sentry lights ablaze but I wonder if they ever consider how they affect their view as well and other's view of the sky at night.

My little farm has two of these sentry lights, one at the Barn and one on the shop. Neither have been used in the past twelve years. They are there if I need them, but so far that has not been the case. The porch light and the motion sensor light at the shop work just fine.

We live in such an amazing environment. Few days go by that I don't get to enjoy the antics of the local ravens, the cautious grazing or nibbling on the haystack of a cottontail, or a covey of quail chowing down on the treats set out for them by the neighbors.

I drive a lot, not just for work but also as a volunteer driver for the special transportation program and I have great peripheral vision. The corner of my eye, generally my right eye seldom fails to notice the pair of Golden Eagles atop power polls just east of Fort Rock. They are almost always within a quarter mile of one another. I spot Red Tails, and Gos Hawks perched at the tops of the tallest poles - they look so tiny. On the windiest of days the Bald Eagles take refuge on the ground - it's just too much work to stay high above on a pole.

Most times of the year I see herds of Prong Horns out in the alfalfa fields and frequently pull over just to enjoy their beauty and to seek out their ever-present curiosity. All I need do is roll down the passenger side window and make a few chirping sounds and the turn their heads in unison to see what that noise is all about.

Often I see small groups of deer, I wouldn't call them herds and on occasion I will see a large herd of 50 - 100 animals quite a distance off the road grazing or bedded down enjoying a sunny respite. I know the elk are out there but I seldom see them. My sightings: Two huge bulls at dusk between Hwy 31 and Ft. Rock, a couple of cows meandering down 31 outside of Silver Lake, and recently part of the herd that moves about the La Pine end of 31. Several years ago I had to stop as hundreds of what I learned was a much larger herd crossed near the Poplars Ranch.

The cougars are elusive but I did sight one last year crossing 31

Thoughts on food & community.

"One kind word can warm three winter months." — Italian Proverb

Spring in Lake County is a nice time to curl up by the fire and become an armchair traveler. For March let's travel to Italy, a country with an unforgettable soft, clear light and food that lingers in your thoughts and in your recipes. Italians wax poetic about spring vegetables, display summer vegetables in their markets that are worthy of paintings, and look forward to fall with its abundance of mushrooms, olives and oil and - always, always - the grapes.

The Emilia-Romagna region of Italy is famous for its balsamic vinegars. Try a dollop on this classic soup which blends squash, Parmesan, and sage. Yum!

BUTTERNUT SQUASH WITH PARMESAN

2	sm butternut squash	2 Tbls	grated Parmesan cheese
2 Tbls	butter	2	fresh sage leaves, chopped
1	lg onion, chopped	1 tsp	salt
3	celery stalks, chopped	¼ tsp	nutmeg
5 c	water or chicken broth	¼ tsp	black pepper
2-4"	Parmesan cheese rind	3 shakes	Tabasco sauce
2	bay leaves	¼ c	fresh parsley, chopped

First, peel, seed and chop the butternut squash into 1-inch cubes and set aside. In a large stockpot melt the butter then add the onion and celery. Sauté 4-5 min. Add the stock, Parmesan rind and bay leaves. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, partially cover, and simmer for 15 min. Add the cubed squash, simmer another 20 minutes. After removing the Parmesan rind and bay leaves, puree about 1/2 of the soup in a food processor, returning the puree to the pot. Stir in the 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan, sage, salt, nutmeg, pepper and Tabasco. Simmer about 5 minutes. Serve with chopped parsley. I like to refrigerate the soup for a day before serving.

Italian foods seem to have a natural affinity for each other, whether from the North or from all the way to Sicily. The best ingredients combined with simple preparation produce a fine and ancient cuisine.

TUSCAN SCHIACCIATA BREAD

Olive oil makes this bread fantastic. It stays moist and combines well with meats, cheeses and soups. Makes 1 rectangular loaf.

3 c	bread flour	To place on top:
½ tsp	salt	2 Tbls	extra virgin olive, for brushing
1 pkg	dry yeast, not rapid rise	2 Tbls	fresh rosemary leaves
1 c	lukewarm water		coarse sea salt, for sprinkling
4 Tbls	olive oil - the best

Sift the flour and salt into a large bowl. Mix the yeast with half of the lukewarm water and stir into flour mixture. Add the remaining ½ cup lukewarm water with the olive oil and mix to a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead for 10 minutes, until smooth and elastic. Place in a lightly oiled bowl and cover with plastic wrap that is oiled. Let rise in a warm place about 1 hour.

Punch down the dough and knead gently on floured board. Roll out to a 12 by 8 rectangle and place on an oiled baking sheet. Brush with some of the olive oil, cover with plastic wrap. Let rise in a warm place about 20 minutes. Now prick with a fork all over the bread and sprinkle with the large grained sea salt and the rosemary. Let rise again for 15 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees about 30 minutes or until golden brown. Transfer to a wire rack to cool slightly.

Buon Appetito!

Think Twice before walking on ice

By Gloria Heglar

We buried my friend Patty Schuman on one of the coldest days of winter, in the sweet little cemetery in Summer Lake overlooking the dry lake bed. I watched as the VFW honored her for her service in the US Air Force in uniforms not sufficiently warm for the harsh weather but very honorable.

Gloria Heglar

The wind chill was as unkind to all of us who stood there. I was deeply added pain we were as we mourned a too lady of 48 who loved was a springtime girl through. We paid honor we never imagined

“Cold as frozen iron, with a hard frost every morning and icy drafts that bit at exposed hands and faces” saddened by the all subjected to young to die Daisies. She through and to her in a way that morning just a couple of leased from St.

JK Rowling

The burial was days after I had been re-Charles Hospital and I was weak from inactivity. I had a week to steady up for the Memorial Service in Paisley.

It snowed that Saturday morning, but we were warm in the Community Center and we celebrated her life with music, prayer by the Pastor and a bible reading suggested by Patty herself, led beautifully by Bob Story. Clark made a video of her family with her at St. Charles. There was the wedding picture of Patty and Derek who had been married for 28 years.

The people that came were people who again braved the elements to show the love she had shared with them. The Volunteers in Paisley served lunch following the service, they are always the heart of an event. What more could anyone want following a loss like this. Her smile will never be forgotten. Her goodness will be felt in our hearts forever.

What have I been doing since then? I have been hibernating, staying in most of the time. I have been making soup, all kinds of soup. Potato Corn chowder, Plain Potato and onion soup cooked in Chicken broth and butter, Chicken breast and vegetables spiced up with a little Cajun seasoning and we even had a taco soup with one of those 6 cans of assorted beans, tomatoes and corn with a sprinkling of taco seasoning and then an avocado cut in chunks with a scattering of shredded cheese thrown on top.

There has been one more kind of soup, one of my favorites, navy bean soup with ham. I was raised to put it in a bowl over a buttered piece of white bread and add chopped onion on top.

I did send Clark to the bar a few times to get me a salad to balance my diet. I still have no plans to get out much except to get my hair done every week, and maybe to attend a social occasion when necessary to not get too weird.

I have read a series on my kindle of ten mystery books plus another mystery. I am discovering having an Amazon Stick for streaming television instead of cable and have watched more amazing shows than all the years I have dealt with cable. The only thing you could get me out to would be able to see my kids but they are still dealing with 101 being closed due to flooding following the fire near Santa Barbara. As Percy Shelly said “If winter comes, can spring be far behind?”

Deadline: The 20th the month

From This Angle: Safety Net

Toni Bailie

Imagine a trapeze artist poised on a platform high above the circus tent floor. Far below, upturned faces of the crowd are watching. She takes a deep breath, swings out on the waiting bar, then hurls herself into space trusting that her partner will catch her. But if she slips, she will bounce into the big safety net that keeps her from crashing.

During challenging times in our lives, it helps to have a safety net of friends and family who surround us with love and prayers. I visualize each caring heart as a transmission tower beaming loving thoughts of strength and encouragement to those in need.

As I supported my daughter Angela during her cancer treatment, I felt the energy of prayer buoy us up, easing our tension and anxiety. During times of pain, conflict and grief it means so much to receive support in big and little ways. Angela's co-workers purchased a $500 gift certificate from an Albuquerque catering company. All of us in the household could choose from a menu of delicious entrées that were delivered each evening to my son-in-law's office. When he brought them home, we popped them in the oven to reheat and dinner was served. One friend sent a daily dose of humor text – laughter really is the best medicine. Another long-time friend sent an extravagant bouquet of roses – in January those roses were a promise of new life that would emerge in spring.

Recently our community mourned the passing of Patty Schuman, who died from a rare form of cancer at age 48. Patty and her husband Derek operated the Homestead Restaurant in Paisley for five years. More recently, they returned to Lake County to open the Coyote Creek Café in Lakeview. Patty touched many lives over the years with her warm smile and joyful appreciation of life.

Their close friends Clark and Gloria Heglar supported Derek with their loving presence when Patty was moved to hospice. Many stalwart friends came to the Summer Lake cemetery for the graveyard service. Ryan Lehman had plowed snow so cars could enter. Those who loved Patty braved the frigid wind blowing off Winter Rim. In spite of the cold, the VFW conducted a ceremony to honor Patty's service in the Air Force and Pastor Wayne Boyd delivered a heart-felt eulogy. Later, at the memorial service in Paisley Community Center, Clark presented a slide show that captured Patty's joyful spirit, while Gloria had prepared a delicious lunch.

The following day, Paisley friends and co-workers attended a benefit spaghetti dinner and silent auction at the Community Center for Sheila Stephens, the Paisley school cafeteria cook, who is recovering from a knee injury. School staff and students, served the dinner and cleaned up afterward. Many generous donors and bidders made the silent auction a success.

With our love, prayers and service all of us weave a safety net for each other. We give and receive in a big circle of caring and support.

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Wherefore, let thy voice raise like a fountain for me day and night."

Ok here is my plan to change the weather pattern. Put a bounty on Punxsutawney Phil!! Or, any other critter that sees their shadow. Problem solved!

This month has been hard on the Queen Mother and what is left of the girls. Most likely food stores are low; remember that most colonies will consume 25 pounds of what's left in the hive just this month alone. They are struggling with the extreme weather temperatures we have had this winter. It would be wise to put some protein patties and candy boards to insure survival.

The Queen Mother is starting to lay eggs and the brood will need food. If you feed candy boards or sugar syrup (1/1 sugar water ratio) add a feed stimulant or essential oils such as lemon-grass or peppermint to get the girls interested. In weather years such as this it is do or die for weak hives so keep on top of the food situation. Candy boards and/or protein patties should be fed on top of the hive just under the inner cover. Do not dally in placing the

BEE-Cuzz You Asked Fe brrrrr ary and the Bees

By Gary A. Brain Summer Lake Apiaries

feed, as you do not want to chill the brood. I noticed when checking the entrances to my hives most all colonies have "poop" stains around the entrance and top escape holes. Most likely the girls have not been able to get out for a cleansing flight. (The girls will not poop in the hive)

A best practice dictates a treatment of fumagilin-B, which combats Nosema a disease that affects the digestive track of the girls. The only way to distinguish common diarrhea from Nosema is through a lab sample and that is normally very expensive. Nosema generally is treated both in the fall and spring to ensure a healthy population. I will be treating all the affected hives as soon as I can have a week of above freezing conditions as the fumagilin is mixed with sugar syrup. With all the snow we have had, keep checking the entrance of the hives keep them clear of snow and dead girls. A clear entrance gives the girls a way to keep their house clean and provides ventilation to help with condensation buildup. A wet cold house is not a good thing for the girls.

If you are going to purchase bees now is the time to order. Early reports indicate a lower than normal survival rate for colonies nation wide. Early reports show up to a 54 percent winter-kill in northeast states alone. One of the largest beekeepers in the United States lost over 50,000 hives between September and January of this year alone! And now at the end of February we have another winter storm warning for up to 9 inches of snow and 60 mph. winds. AUGGH!

This will place a high demand on replacement bees.

Well that is it for this month. Keep your cuffs tight and your smoker Lit and your hive tool handy!

Bee safe!

The Friends of the Christmas Valley Library Winter Doldrums Art Show

First place in photography went to Barbara Johnson with a stunning photo capturing Ft. Rock on Easter Sunday just as day was breaking. This photo needs to be seen in person to appreciate its clarity.

Julie Peterson's talented hand captures the cowboy way of life as seen here in the high desert. Again a photo in the paper does not do justice to this lovely work of art.

Jerry Tracey's oil, with its subtle colors, draws viewers in to life on the farms and ranches with a landscape featuring outbuildings.

There was a lot of children's art at the show but this painting by Jamey took the first place ribbon, I love the way kids see the world!

just before dropping down Horse Ranch Hill.

And then there are the coyotes. I so enjoy watching them move silently through the fields as they stalk our pesky gophers and ground squirrels and the occasional Jack Rabbit, a critter I have seen few of over the past few years.

Another of the beauties of our high desert is the flora. Of course it is dominated by the sage, bitter brush and rabbit brush but get out, take a walk in the black hills or on an obscure desert road and enjoy a multitude of delicate desert flowers. They are eye candy.

On to other thoughts and outings. I feel remiss in failing to make it to any of the North Lake School basketball games this year. It just wasn't in the cards - too many trips to Bend - many of them on the same day as a home game. The Girls ended the season ranked 24th with an overall league record of 10 wins and six losses.

The North Lake Boys had an outstanding year winning 19 of 23 games overall and 13 of 19 league games. They ranked seventh and made it to the district play-offs which were held in La Pine on February 16. Their opponent was Trinity Lutheran the sixth ranked team.

It was a close, hard fought game with the final score Trinity Lutheran 48, North Lake Cowboys 40. All in all the North Lake boys had a great season!

I was able to get to Representative Greg Walden's Town Hall meeting at North Lake School on February 9th. About 100 citizens attended and I think more people would have been there had we had more advanced warning.

Even so the meeting was well organized and the question and answer session was interesting and informative. If you were unable to attend, the it was videoed by the Lake County Examiner and is available for viewing on their site.

An issue he spoke strongly about was the need for cooperation and coordination of local fire departments, ranchers, farmers and loggers in managing forest fires, noting that as a young man he listened to his father talk of getting loggers who were in close proximity to a fire to bring their equipment so the fire could be stopped or at least managed until more equipment from state and federal agencies arrived.

Gluten Free 'Fallen' Chocolate Cake

We made this dessert for our Valentine's Weekend Special at the Flyway restaurant on the advice of our Chef Jason, who said it was the most fabulous chocolate cake he had ever tasted! We agree with him

According to the internet blog.redvelvetnyc.com, this cake was created by an accident in someone's kitchen--(there are several stories) so it's often called "uno dei pasticci più fortunati della storia" or one of history's most fortunate mistakes.

For those of you on a gluten free diet, if you love chocolate, you will know rapture. You can substitute semi sweet for the bittersweet chocolate if necessary but it will not be as bold a flavor. Some renditions add some vanilla and/ or espresso powder. We chose to keep it purely, intensely chocolate.

Incredibly Simple Ingredients

1lb of bittersweet chocolate
¾ cup sugar
6 large eggs
½ cup real butter (1 cube)

- Set oven for 325° F
- Cut a circle of parchment or wax paper to fit in the bottom of an 8 or 9inch cake pan.(Just trace around bottom of pan for pattern.) Use a spring form pan if you have one but it's not necessary. Grease your pan and place parchment in bottom; then grease it too.
- Put about 1/2 inch of water in bottom of another oven-proof pan (such as a roasting pan) that is larger than cake pan for a water bath. This will prevent the top of your cake from splitting. Put it in oven to preheat.
- Mix eggs and sugar in a stand mixer until foamy. Just turn on and let mix on med or high for about 10 minutes.
- Melt chocolate and butter in double boiler (or microwave) stirring as it melts.
- Wisk Chocolate mixture into the egg mixture till thoroughly combined and pour all into the parchment lined cake pan.
- Place pan in water bath making sure water is only about ½ way up side of cake pan.

Bake for 30 – 40 minutes or until cake is firm but still jiggles a bit. Or when table knife inserted in center comes out clean.

That's the basic cake. For an over the top version, make a ganache of 1 cup semi or bittersweet chocolate chips and ½ cup cream melted and whisked together. Pour this over cooled, unmolded cake drizzling down sides. Add raspberries or raspberry sauce to the plate for garnish if desired. Gotta go now. I need some chocolate!

harm himself. When Deputies arrived they were able to disarm the male. The victim stated Rohwer strangled her to the point of unconsciousness. When the victim regained consciousness she heard someone at the front door attempting to gain entry to the residence, possibly to help the victim. Rohwer told the victim that if she made any sound at all she would be taking her last breath. When the person outside the residence left, Rohwer left also. Rohwer is wanted for Harassment, Assault III, Menacing and Strangulation. The Sheriff's Office is asking the citizens of Lake County to report any information they have on Russell Rohwer. A cash reward is available for anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of Russell Rohwer. The Sheriff's Office is also seeking the identity of the person who may have come to the aid of the victim the morning of this incident. Please contact Deputy Kintzley with information.

Enjoy "The Prospector" as he takes offers readers new views of features and histories which most likely would not have captured their attention but now may well pique their interest. I say meander because our Prospector and his writing travel a path that has many curves and bends along the way, but in the end an interesting destination is reached. So spend a little time mulling over the journey and if you are curious like me, you may find yourself getting ready to do a little exploring.

Watching the winter storm rage I opened my mail to pictures of spirals that measure five telephone poles in distance across in width, identical in parabola design with a four o'clock bulge in all but one with a two o'clock, all spinning counter clock wise, all expanding and all in Lake County; then asks, "What are these?" An Adventure!

A parabola is a mathematical equation used to measure the geometric area within a bulge in a circle. This is a common math formula but to find not just one but four parabolas just under a half mile across in a row, is simply man-made, but when?

Every civilization since the Dawn of Man has known where the North Star, Polaris, is located in the Sky. The Ancients called her Prey and every day she gets surrounded by the Six Hunters which we know as the constellation Little Dipper. She is surrounded and every twenty-three hours and fifty-six minutes. The Six Hunters can teach you to tell time within minutes by observing the stars. Also of note is that the magnetic North moves one degree every hundred years. With this in mind, and using the tiny tunnels that were driven thru the pyramids to spot the North Star one can age the structures. The number of degrees off, times one hundred years equals the time elapsed since construction of that pyramid. An interesting method to age old structures.

Imagine driving around the back roads when the road you are on jogs bit and then comes into an intersection at a right angle. Your compass says that the roads represent the four Cardinal Points minus five degrees- Spanish intersection - they were here five hundred years ago. Using the North as a reference point and assuming that the only straight section near the center and heading west would point at Polaris during its construction. This section, we will call Stem, is the only straight piece and slightly larger in width than the rest of the spirals, better constructed because of lack of erosion and quite visible in all four designs.

If the Stem pointed due North during construction multiply the difference the number of degrees, C 55 from today's True North would equal approximately fifty-five hundred years old for the oldest parabola and forty-three hundred the age of the youngest.

So to see how this works, place a tall stick at the end of a stem in its center and walk about three football fields in length and place another stick in the center. Use these two reference points to determine the angle of the stem then walk another section in that direction for an accurate North reading. Area photographs from Space can never be riled on for Cardinal Direction but imaging is a good start. Dealing with artifacts these old assumptions are very large factors in this equation.

Lake County five thousand years ago was called Lake Evidence signifying the 'tub ring' erosion that is found throughout. Did the Anasazi build these structures as they did in the Four Corners Area and their cliff dwellings?

The Hopi were too busy with their agriculture for such nonsense. The Spanish didn't build these gigantic geometric designs because the King would not allow it. Many of the old island cultures worshiped

PARABOLA SPIRALS

Opinion by The Prospector

the concave design of the shells. These spirals were on a shore of a massive inland sea at one time but my first thought, Spiral Galaxy. Spinning the right direction, counter clock wise.

Looking at the Milky Way we see huge flares of stars being thrown out to who knows where and which show the rotation we are being rolled in thru Space. The amount of energy created by spinning and ejecting stars that number, to quote the late Dr. Carl Sagan, "billions and billions of stars and thousands and thousands of Solar Systems," would cause, we assume, a parabolic design to our Galaxy.

Does the erosion in each of the designs facing the bulge indicate this discharge and was it built into the design? I don't know of any spiral galaxies that have a stem core. With the oldest (D) outer flare piecing (C) all the way thru the center gives this thesis an ominous feeling. The Stem is the reason I THINK I know what it is: A Parabolic Spring. The part of the spring that fastens to the frame to control the spring is most solid thus wider, as in the designs. The area on the spring say as a watch spring needs to be flat otherwise it will not fasten properly therefore a 'kink' is placed on the spring to accommodate this necessary engineering and located at the very end of the Stem and at the very beginning of the spring. As the springs unwind it reflexes its power to distort the circle to a parabolic design. In Spiral (A) and (B) there is a distinct kink that is very visible. Spiral (C) and (D) have large areas under construction and erosion in this exact spot. The really big question is why would anybody go to such a degree of difficulty to remove twenty miles of Terra Firma by hand in an exacting geometric design? For what beneficial purpose? If you say that it is evidence of extraterrestrial visitation; I say you watch too much television.

To Be Continued in the Spring!
